The Outstanding Baby

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, abandoning her practice of choosing the "ten outstanding women of the year," is wise; the thing can't be done.

The outstanding woman of each year is the woman who has produced the year's best baby, and she has to wait about fifty years to find which baby was best, sometimes longer.

This is no belittling of woman's work. The outstanding artist of the year is the painter of the greatest picture in that year. Man puts his brains and his power into his work, woman puts hers into her baby. Some day that will be realized and the Lincoln statue will show Nancy Hanks in bronze, with little Abraham sitting on her lap, waiting for his dinner.

Ben Tillett, labor member of Parliament, sorry King Edward left, says he was "hounded" out, and wishes the King could have stayed on to say what he thought about hard conditions of slum dwellers and coal miners.

English kings say little, that is their role, but Edward had already talked a little too much about vile slums and workmen without work or hope.

That made the government glad to be rid of him.

Edward, Duke of Windsor, annoyed by the Archbishop of Canterbury's attack, is said to consider leaving the Church of England in protest.

The King might have been wiser had he stayed on his throne, done what he chose, about marriage and other things and incidentally, removed the archbishop from his highest place in the Church of England. A man can do little, when he no longer holds the "gun."

Englishmen that had manufactured plates, cups, etc., with portraits of the former King Edward, to be sold at his coronation, expected a total loss. Now all are sold and they have orders for more, the plates have become curiosities. Buyers of china for American department stores might order some, as curiosities.

The wife of the new American Ambassador to Russia takes to Moscow 2000 pints of cream, frozen far below zero, and 25 electric refrigerators. That equipment will supply more ice cream than some Russians have seen in a long time, and it is a sign of progress. The United States government is experimenting with the idea of freezing milk at low temperatures, first suggested by Clarence Birdseye. Food, milk included, are frozen so rapidly that the cells do not break down and there is no loss of food value.

A farmer in the Catskill Mountains, New York, may be able to sell his surplus milk at a fair price on the equator, as fresh as when it left the cow.

Seven learned scientists will spend nine months studying big apes in the jungles of Siam, Borneo and Sumatra. These scientists, from Harvard, Johns Hopkins and Bard College, will watch the apes as they were never watched before, and tell us what discoveries they make about our alleged "cousins."

Some wise chimpanzee might say to them: "Now please go back, study some of your gangsters and leaders of wars and tell us what you discovered there."

Christmas trees appear again in Russia, where they thought religion had been buried forever. They call them New Year's trees. Religion has a habit of not remaining buried. You cannot change human beings by law, not even with the help of Karl Marx—they grow in a certain way, as do Christmas trees and other products of nature. You change them temporarily, but they return to the original form.

In Mexico, workers for an American firm in the State of Sinaloa, not satisfied with their employers, emphasize that fact by shutting off light, water and other public services in the town of Los Mochis, in which they and other workmen live.

The strikers hope to "paralyze all activity in one-half of the state."

This might be called "biting off your nose to spite your face"; there should be a better plan.

The suggestion of an all-America court to decide quarrels between different republics on these two continents is postponed until 1938. The United States, if wise, will never act as judge or appoint judges in quarrels between other American republics. No matter how they might decide, this country would be accused of self interest or injustice, making one enemy in every case.

You may be sure that the lady who appeared before King Solomon and did not get the baby, hated Solomon for his wisdom.

HULTMAN MOVES TO BAR QUABBIN 'MILLION DEAL'

SETTLEMENT LEFT UP TO ENGINEERS

Calling in eminent engineers—one a figure of national importance—Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission moved today to block what taxpayers' associations term an unwarranted million-dollar settlement for damages at Quabbin Reservoir.

Hultman met Attorney Robert G. Dodge and his clients, who would benefit by an award of damages from the state, at his office on Beacon Hill in the presence of these engineers.

He said that the commissioners had agreed with Attorney Dodge and two of his clients that the question of the million-dollar damages should rest with the engineers.

At the same time, it was learned, he had called upon Charles T. Main, nationally known hydraulic engineer and state aide in 1895, to be present.

MAYOR FIGHTS DEAL

Others included in the conference were Frank Winsor, Frank Barbour and Walter H. Sears, all attached to the metropolitan commission as expert engineers.

The water supply chairman refused to say what action he contemplated, but he remarked significantly:

"There will be a statement after this conference is concluded."

Mayor Mansfield of Boston has already served notice that he would try to balk a settlement now of claims for damages which would not take place for three years.

In addition to calling a confer-

MAN ADMITS BIGAMY, GETS 6 MONTHS

Whispering a confession to the prosecutor just after court went into session, Arthur D. King, 48, of South Weymouth, today was allowed to change his plea to guilty of bigamy in Dedham superior court and was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Judge Frederick W. Fosdick immediately issued bench warrants for King and Mrs. Olive Barnes, also of South Weymouth, the woman he admitted marrying before his divorce became final, charging them with perjury.

They had each denied several times on the witness stand that they were married.

HELD IN $5000

They were held in $5000 bail for appearance in the April session of the Superior Court, and were remanded to Dedham Jail on the perjury charges.

Their repeated denials of the marriage were challenged by the testimony yesterday of the Rev. George S. Harper, of Weehawken, N. J., who identified them as the couple he married last January 25.

That was two weeks after King's wife, Ethel, who was complainant in the action, won a divorce.

King confessed the marriage when he stepped up to Assistant District Attorney George W. Arbuckle as court was opened, and whispered that he wished to plead guilty.

EXPLAINS "I LOVED HER"

Asked by Judge Fosdick why he had denied the marriage, King cleared his throat and said:

"I loved her and wanted to be with her. That's why I married her."

He also stated that his attorney, Harry Pavan, had received details of the marriage as well as the court.

King's move came after two days of testimony in which it was testified that after he went to Mrs. Barnes' home as a boarder, the latter's husband, Bertram, Sr., boarded with Mrs. King.

Edith Maxwell Again Is Guilty

Gets 20-Year Prison Term

EDITH MAXWELL

Again Convicted of Slaying Father

Wise, Va., Dec. 17 (INS)—Upholding for the second time the patriarchal code of "mountain justice," an impassive jury of hillfolk today found Edith Maxwell, slim and raven-haired 22-year-old school teacher, guilty of the murder of her father, Trigg Maxwell, and sentenced her to 20 years in prison.

It took but one hour and 37 minutes of the jury, composed of farmers, carpenters and clerks, to return its verdict in the case of the pretty mountaineer's daughter who went "out in the world" to be educated and, upon returning to the hill country, rebelled against the age-old precept of the "Lonesome Pine" country that a child must bow to every mandate of its parents.

As the jury filed solemnly into its box in the musty old courtroom, where a year ago a similarly-composed jury found Edith guilty at the first trial, hundreds of quintly-

London, Dec. 17 (INS)—A bitter attack on the "huffy old woman" in the British cabinet who, he charged, forced King Edward's abdication, was launched in the House of Commons today by John McGovern, Independent Laborite from Scotland.

McGovern also assailed clergymen who have attacked the former King. His remarks were made during the course of a debate on the controversial "means test" for the unemployed.

Cannes, France, Dec. 17 (AP)—Letters threatening Wallis Warfield Simpson for causing the abdication of Edward VIII are still being received at the Riviera villa where she is staying, a spokesman said today.

Mrs. Simpson herself, he said, tore up many of the letters, spurning suggestions that some of the more violent ones be turned over to the police.

Mrs. Simpson, it was said, "is not afraid" of the poison pen writers, and delights in tearing up the letters herself "to show her contempt for that sort of thing."

She hoped, however, that the mail would dwindle because of the strict seclusion in which she chooses to live.

Mrs. Simpson left the villa for a twilight motor drive today.

The chauffeur and a bodyguard accompanied her.

Mother at Death's Door, Son Kills Self in Reading

Edward Thornton, 36, of 86 Washington street, Reading, did not go to Winchester Hospital today to visit his dying mother.

For seven weeks he had made visits with the sad knowledge that she could probably not live until Christmas.

Last night, his father, Thomas Thornton, and two brothers, James, 25, and Thomas, Jr., 37, became alarmed when he did not return.

They found him dead this morning on the tennis court of a nearby playground, his wrists and throat slashed.

Medical Examiner Dr. Roscoe D. Purley returned a finding of suicide and explained the man had been seriously despondent since his mother, Mrs. Mary Thornton, was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage seven weeks ago today.

The mother, now in a coma, will probably never be told of her son's death.

WALLY IN CONTEMPT TEARS UP THREATS ON HER LIFE

ceived 6000 letters from feminine admirers today applauding his "romantic gesture" in giving up the British throne for Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Eight hundred of the writers also asked the British prince for jobs, most of them requesting a preference for secretarial work.

Reliable sources disclosed the duke suffered last night from another attack of severe head pains, which some said might be connected with his ear affliction.

Attendants at the castle of Baron Eugene de Rotenschild, where the former ruler is a guest, emphasized however the duke "is not really ill."

Then said he intends to continue his golf and may go hunting.

INN "IN THE MONEY"

The presence of the abdicated monarch brought a little bustle of excitement to this little Austrian village where spectators thronged in the hope of getting a glimpse of the man who renounced a throne for love.

An innkeeper, whose best business day formerly had brought $8 into his till, grossed $275 yesterday.

The duke's dog, "Slippery," received a companion when a Vienna woman presented the prince with a gray terrier.

He also was offered chances to buy 220 castles, most of them belonging to impoverished nobles.

Edward sat up late last night listening to a British radio broadcast over his high power receiving set with its special antenna.

TO GO SHOPPING

In golf and an evening game of bridges the former monarch displayed much of his old time gaiety, said those who had access to the castle.

The Baroness Rothschild it was learned last evening won Edward over to her suggestion that he make a Christmas shopping tour in Vienna and perhaps even visit some of the night clubs in which he and Mrs. Simpson spent so many carefree hours during previous visits to Austria.

Tension was relieved and gay from the castle said today his apparent mental depression of the first few days of his self-imposed exile was created by doubts as to whether his best course was to meet Mrs. Simpson or remain away from her until after her divorce from Ernest A. Simpson becomes final on April 27.

The House of Commons met today in crackling tension, with nerves buzzing about the lobbies trying to squelch a move to bring up in Parliament the archbishop's speech.

Today's order paper called for debate on the government's repeated refusal Broadcasting Corporation, and Col. Josiah Wedgwood, who, he, planned to demand of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin why the Archbishop of Canterbury was permitted to use the British radio monopoly to cast disparaging comments on the private affairs of the King.

Serio-tragic are developments in the new rule. Adding to the woes of the royal family, in the midst of epidemic which put 400 employes of one London department store alone on the sick roster has hit the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester. Queen Elizabeth is recovering from the same malady.

An ironic story of "often a bridesmaid but never a bride" was related with the arrival in London of the 13-year-old Princess Cecilie of Prussia, daughter of the former Crown Prince of Germany.

EDWARD'S LOVE SECRETS

Mentioned most prominently as a likely bride for King Edward VIII before his love for Mrs. Simpson was told to the world, Princess Cecilie came to be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Lady Prudence Jellicoe on Dec. 22.

The guidebook keys to the future marriages of the Duke of Windsor will be princes or princesses, according to the news magazine Candide today.

Mrs. Simpson would take the title of Duchess of Windsor, ranking after the Duke and Duchess of Kent and before Prince Arthur of Connaught.

The Simpson case was not the first time his ministers overruled Edward's marriage hopes, Candide said.

In his 20's the then Prince of Wales fell deeply in love with a London school teacher, the magazine said, and was then willing to give up his right to the throne and go to Canada to live, but his father's cabinet succeeded in conquering his wish.

On another occasion he was talked in a plan to marry a young titled Irish woman.

Edward Asks King George To Hush Up Archbishop

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Dec. 17—While an influenza epidemic spread through the royal family today the Duke of Windsor was reported to have sped a message to his brother and successor pleading with the new King to silence the Archbishop of Canterbury and other persistent critics of the ex-ruler.

Baron Brownlow, close friend of both Mrs. Wallis Simpson and former King Edward, is on his way from the King's retreat, Castle Enzesfeld, Austria, to London, according to the Daily Express.

The Baron, who dashed from Mrs. Simpson's sanctuary in Cannes to Enzesfeld just after the archbishop commented on Edward's "social circles," was believed on a mission to England connected with the primate's broadcast.

Besides turning back on the Church of England by planning a civil wedding, the Duke of Windsor is said to reply to the archbishop, but feels that he cannot now in his present position. Because of that fact, however, he said to have asked King George to use the influence of the crown to prevent any further unanswerable criticism.

Queen Marie Invites Edward to Yule Party

By ALFRED TYRNAUER

Vienna, Dec. 17—Marie, Queen Mother of Rumania, whose own son once forsook a throne for love, planned today to brighten the Duke of Windsor's Christmas by making him the center of a gay party that may reunite the ex-king and his youngest brother.

Disapproving her full admiration for the Duke of Windsor's dignity in handling the extremely difficult situation, Marie, it was learned, inviting him to spend the Yule season at her daughter's castle, Sonnberg, near Vienna.

Queen Mother Marie is also inviting the Duke of Kent, Edward's brother, and Prince Dudleigh, Prince Paul, head of the Yugoslavian regency council, and Princess Olga, wife and sister of the Duchess of Kent.

Sonnberg, only 20 minutes' drive from the Duke of Windsor's retreat at Castle Enzesfeld, is the home of the former Princess Ileana of Rumania, who married Archduke Anton of Hapsburg.

It is thought possible that Windsor might accept, although thus far he has shown the greatest reluctance to leave Enzesfeld for more than a few hours.

Marie arrives at Sonnberg next week.

ence of officials of cities and towns in the area, the mayor has written to officials of the commission asking that a public hearing be held if settlement of the damages is being considered at this time.

The water supply board was to confer with representatives of the Boston Duck Company and the Palmer Mills, Inc., which are asking for immediate settlement on 700 ft river properties owned by them.

The properties in question were acquired by the two corporations from the Otis Company and a considerable part of them are not in use at the present time although it is reported that plans are being made to reopen the mills.

THREATEN FIGHT

In the statement of the taxpayer's federation, issued by Executive Director Norman McDonald, it is charged that representatives of the two concerns have asked for immediate settlement of their claim for damages which will not occur for at least three years.

"Reports are that immediate action was held to be necessary to prevent an even larger demand later," the statement declared. "We hereby serve notice that any attempt to make a suspicious-ly hasty and premature million-dollar payment for hypothetical damages three years in the future will be bitterly contested."

In a statement to the press, Attorney Dodge called the taxpayers' statement "pure bunk" and said the premises of their argument were based on mere conjecture.

"Some time ago—in 1932, I believe—" he said, "the law firm of Herrick, Smith, Donald & Farley, representing the Otis Company, offered to settle for $1,-600,000, including the Ware river aspect of the case.

"Later, engineers on both sides made elaborate studies of the problem and arrived at estimates of its damages.

"At the end of 1934, I understand that th commission's own engineers advised that it would be wise to settle for more than $1,100,000.

"Recently the Otis Company sold out to purchasers and the purchasers have informed the commission that they are willing to settle for even less than the figure set by the state's own engineers."

Tree Clues Shift Plane Hunt to Utah Mountain

Salt Lake City, Dec. 17 (AP)—A freshly sheared mountain tree and possible "tracks of an airplane" drew searchers into a snow-drifted wilderness today, confident the fate of an airliner carrying two women and five men would be known by nightfall.

The hunt centered on the western slope of the Wasatch Mountains, 25 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, where several people reported hearing a sputtering airplane motor early Tuesday, the day the Los Angeles-Salt Lake City Western Air Express transport disappeared.

At dusk yesterday a broken tree was found atop a ridge and on the nearby rim of a canyon were deep indentations in the shale. J. I. Hess, forest service foreman, said they "might be tracks of an airplane."

FRANKLIN CLASSIC

Offered by American This Week

Of particular interest to residents of Boston and New England is the selection of the current Boston Evening American book-of-the-week.

It is Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography and Poor Richard's Almanac, hailed by educators as one of the world's masterpieces and, for that very reason, included in the 20-volume library being made available to readers in the unique Book-a-Week plan of this newspaper.

Franklin's direct and straightforward story of his inspiring rise from one of Boston's not-so-well-off families, to fame in his chosen career and in the nation he helped to found, has always been considered one of his best works.

All you have to do to add this wonderful volume to your library—or for that matter the previously offered "Vanity Fair" and "The Last of the Mohicans"—is to clip a coupon a day for six days and then present the six consecutively numbered tickets and 39 cents.

Be sure the coupons are numbered consecutively. And don't forget that a series is printed each week.

You can obtain your book at any of the redemption stations listed or you can use the mail order blank which accompanies the coupon in this newspaper each day. It contains full directions and the cost is only a few cents more.

'Hounding' Of Edward Again Flayed

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Dec. 17—A bitter attack upon "goody goodies" and "Pharisees" who allegedly "drove Edward out of the country" was delivered in an interview today by Ben Tillet, noted British labor leader.

Tillet scored the "wretched hypocrisy of the forces who drove Edward out the country and still are hounding him."

"They didn't care half as much as he for the people or for the State, except to use it for a cat-o-nine tails, of a cat of 100 tails," said Tillet.

"Whatever he's done, he's been punished enugh. Mrs. Simpson has suffered enough, too.

"Anti-social forces behind the abdication made it the worst kind of expression of class warfare. If the onslaught against Edward and his friends continues, repercussions will not only be against the clerics, but against English institutions themselves.

"I don't believe Edward wanted to give up the throne, but it was made impossible for him to keep it. The hostile forces were too great.

"His sympathy with the depressed areas was a direct challenge, and it was the greatest feature of his abdication.

"The die is cast. Edward is in exile, which is another sinister side of it all.

"Even if there were a European war or a domestic crisis, his leadership would not and could not be asked."

Charge King Railroaded Off Throne

London, Dec. 17 (INS)—Virtually charging that Edward VIII was "railroaded" off the throne, today's issue of "The Week" asserts that the constitutional crisis could have been averted "had the cabinet wanted to."

Instead, the news weekly alleges, Edward was tricked into a showdown "because of the general undesirability of the (now) Duke as king, and the need for his immediate removal."

and a man was run down in East Boston, raising to 230 the toll of auto deaths in Greater Boston and establishing a record high mark.

In Haverhill a truck driver who was pinned beneath his machine succumbed to injuries after a valiant struggle.

Warrants for two men may be asked, police said, as a result of the accident at Commonwealth avenue and Hereford street, Back Bay, in which Miss Norah E. Lonergan, 41, of Copley street, Cambridge, was killed.

AUTOS HAVE KILLED 230 IN GREATER BOSTON THIS YEAR

In this crash, three men were also injured. Edward Donlan, 21, of Newton street, Waltham, alleged operator of the car, is at City Hospital with concussion of the brain and severe lacerations and contusions.

The car which was in collision with this machine was the one in which Miss Lyons was killed. The operator, according to authorities, left the scene, but later telephoned to police headquarters that he would report.

He is described as a Watertown resident and vice-president of a large Boston paper company.

The owner of the car that police said Donlan was operating was informed that he must appear.

The machine in which Miss Lynch was a passenger skidded across the sidewalk on Commonwealth avenue, according to police, then smashed up against a building.

The second machine overturned at 85 Hereford street, pinning its three occupants inside. Besides Donlan, the other victims were: William Sullivan, 25, of Oakland street, Watertown, and John L. Linehan, 25, also of Oakland street. They were not seriously injured.

While police were extricating Miss Lynch from the wreckage of the first car, a girl who gave the name of Gertrude Feeney of Brookline appeared, said she was a friend of the victim and insisted on going to City Hospital in the ambulance.

The second death was that of Thomas Nickley, 38, of Wadsworth street, East Boston, who was run down by an automobile operated, police said, by William C. Tyner, 35, a member of the crew of the Coast Guard cutter Thetis.

Tyner, who lives at 1331 Pataco avenue, Brooklyn, a suburb of Baltimore, Md., was held in $5000 bail for a hearing December 31 by Judge Charles J. Brown in East Boston district court. He was charged with manslaughter, driving to endanger, driving without insurance, driving without a registration and driving on the left of a reservation.

At Cole Memorial Hospital in Haverhill Alphonse Roy, 32-year-old Lawrence truck driver, who differed his own rescue while pinned beneath a wrecked truck, died as a result of a fractured skull.

His wife and two children sat by his bed as he breathed his last. He was injured Monday when his machine skidded and overturned.

ROXBURY GIRL INJURED

The second seriously injured person today was Miss Beatrice Lemieux, 18, of Orilwia street, Roxbury, who was struck by a machine in Western avenue, Brighton.

She was at St. Elizabeth's Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

Police said that the car which hit her was operated by Ralph Collins of Annapolis road, West Newton.

Another pedestrian who had his right leg broken when he was run down in East Cottage street, Dorchester, was Richard Rodwell, 53, of Grant street, Dorchester.

DRIVER SOUGHT

The driver of this machine left the scene according to police, and is now being sought.

To complete the total of alleged hit-and-run drivers, another car crashed through a brick wall of a home in Albany street, Roxbury, landing in the bedroom of Mrs. Susan Skidmore, 60, a first floor tenant.

She was knocked out of her bed and showered with broken glass and plaster. She was treated for her injuries and then taken to the home of friends.

A Wreath For Charity!

It was just one doorbell after another for Miss Emily Nichols today as she, with other Boston debutantes, started selling Christmas wreaths for the benefit of the "Little House." She's shown at the doorway of a prospective customer.

CURLEY Weighs Yule PARDONS

OUSTERS ALSO ON PROGRAM

Dividing his attention between compiling a list of those who will be divorced from their state jobs tomorrow, and compiling a list of convicts who will get Christmas pardons, Governor Curley stayed at home today.

For the first task, Edmond Hoy, his chief secretary, was present. For the second, John H. Backus, legal advisor, was at hand.

It was reported that the results of the conference would be presented to the executive council when it meets in special session tomorrow.

The special session was caused by delay in the ruling of Attorney-General Paul Dever on the action of the council in ordering Charles P. Howard, chairman of the state commission on administration and finance, to refund $18,496.16 to three coal companies for alleged failure to deliver coal of contract specifications.

Howard Ouster Due

State House observers believe that Howard will be ousted from his post at tomorrow's session when Dever's ruling is returned to the council.

But there was much shaking of heads today in the wake of the governor's reply to a question as to whether he was planning any more ousters.

"I haven't fully decided," was the response of the governor, "but any one of the heads may go into the basket now."

Removals expected at tomorrow's meeting in addition to Howard are those of four trustees of the Boston State Hospital, whose resignations the governor has demanded.

Thus far the resignations of the four, Charles H. Frothingham, Leopold M. Goulston, Henry Lefavour and one unnamed member of the board, have not been received.

Retirement of Dr. James V. May, superintendent of the hospital, to take effect tomorrow, has already been announced.

Meanwhile Dr. David L. Williams, just confirmed state commissioner of mental diseases, has been ordered by Governor Curley to take over the powers and duties of the trustees.

Plum to Brother

Important moves on the political chess board were appointment of John J. Curley, brother of the chief executive, as chairman of the public utilities commission at $8000 a year.

Professor John J. Murray, dismissed commissioner, was given Curley's post as chairman of the board of tax appeals at $7500 in its stead.

One of the biggest political plums fell to Edmond Hoy, chief gubernatorial secretary, who was confirmed as clerk of civil sessions, Boston Municipal Court, at 10500, to succeed the retiring William F. Donovan.

Joseph Riley of Hyde Park, brother-in-law of Joseph Lennane, secretary of the Hendricks Club, was appointed to succeed the late James H. Devlin as associate judge of the municipal court. The post carries a $9000 salary.

State House Huddles

A grand shuffle of public officials is taking place at the State House as Governor Curley's term draws to a close. Here is Daniel H. Coakley, (left) stormy petrel of the Executive Council, chatting with John J. Crehan, just appointed as judge of the Barnstable district court.

Will more heads fall into the political basket tomorrow when the Governor's Council meets again in special session? Councillor Frank A. Brooks, (left) one of the three Republican members who share in the traditional six to three decisions of that body, talks things over with Lieutenant Governor Joseph L. Hurley, who presides.

CHEATS Death From THROAT

ROOSEVELT, JR., IMPROVING

Three hurried trips of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the bedside of her son, Franklin, Jr., at Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital, were explained today.

It was revealed that the President's son had been close to death on several occasions in the past weeks.

The President's son hopes now to join his fiancee, Miss Ethel du Pont, at the White House Christmas party if the hopes of his physician are realized.

Throat Infected

The serious nature of the young Harvard senior's illness was learned when Dr. George Loring Tobey, his physician, disclosed he had been fighting a hemolytic streptococcus throat. Many have died from such an infection, some within a few hours.

In the weeks Franklin Jr. has spent in Massachusetts General Hospital, no hint had been given he was confined for anything other than a sinus infection.

Not until after employing a chemo-therapeutic agent known as prontylin, which has been only a few months in this country, did Dr. Tobey announce the throat infection had existed and had been conquered.

Fiancee Leaves

"That's all over now," he said in reporting the crisis was passed last week.

Dr. Tobey said the operation now was considered unnecessary, and that, barring some unexpected change, the President's son would be able to spend Christmas with his father and mother.

Miss Du Pont left Boston yesterday afternoon by airplane after visiting him and being assured he was "doing well."

EDITH MAXWELL GETS 20 YEARS

costumed mountaineers and their womenfolk grew silent, craning their necks to hear.

"We, the jury," read C. I. Fulton, court clerk, from the jury foreman's slip, "find the defendant guilty of murder in the second degree and fix her sentence at 20 years in the state penitentiary."

The verdict burst like a bombshell on the deep silence of the room.

Edith emitted one piercing moan, and fell, sobbing wildly, into the arms of her aunt, Mrs. A. T. Dobson, who attempted to comfort the stricken girl.

A strangling "boo" gained momentum among the spectators and a sprinkling of half-hearted applause was scarcely audible.

Out of Judge Ezra Carter's pounding with his gravel eventually came a semblance of order. Then defense counsel, stunned by the verdict, announced he would appeal and move to have Edith released on bail pending outcome of the appeal.

Breaks Legs in Fall

Pope Pius Heeds Advisers, Rests To Save Strength

Vatican City, Dec. 17 (AP)—Pope Pius XI was said by Vatican attendants today to be showing more inclination to obey his doctors' orders and conserve his strength.

The 79-year-old pontiff, who has been kept in bed for 12 days by a circulatory ailment was still relentless, however, at his enforced inactivity.

Dr. Amitta Misuri and other papal physicians were said to have explained to the Holy Father it was only after over-exertion that he suffered setbacks and to have pleaded with him to restrict his conferences on Vatican business today to a minimum as he did yesterday.

The Pope received Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state and his nephew, Franco Pacelli, technical director of Vatican City.

Vatican circles were relieved by a report His Holiness might be able to receive the Christmas greetings of the Roman Cardinals and, with continued improvement, be able to address them.

Before his physicians called today, the Pope had planned to attend his activities.

Yule Wreath Sale By Debs Aids Little House

Many a Back Bay doorbell was ring today as a group of Boston society matrons and debutantes began their annual two-day round of Christmas wreath selling in aid of the "Little House."

Directing the socialite charitable activity was Mrs. Jessel Colt of Brookline and Mrs. Michael Murray of Beacon Hill.

Among their active aides were debutantes Misses Emily Nichols, Dorothy Preston and Madeline Powers.

The oft repeated request of "Which buy my Christmas wreaths" met with great success as the smiling debutantes explained their mission.

Cape Hubby Loses $100,000 Balm Suit

Barnstable, Dec. 17—Following a recent deliberation of 24 hours, a Barnstable County Superior Court jury today decided against Emily S. Horton, of Eastham, in his $100,000 suit charging W. Everett Bonsall of Orleans with alienation of his wife's affections.

Horton charged his wife, Mrs. Josephine Horton, left him in 1926 and went to work as housekeeper for Bonsall the following year, where she is still employed.

FLOYD GIBBONS

The Angry Dog!

A Tale of Horror That Brockton Girl Can Never Forget

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

You know, boys and girls, there's always a reason why people are afraid—afraid of anything. If you'll go back far enough into their pasts and search expertly enough you can find out where almost any of their fears come from.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Some of them—like the fear of falling, and the fear of darkness—go way back into the dark ages of prehistoric time for their beginning.

Fears like that are inherited. They're bred into us. They've been handed down to us by generation after generation of our forbears, who found them mighty useful in the struggle to keep themselves alive, and passed them on to us in the hope that they might be useful to us, too.

And, then, on the other hand, there are fears that we don't inherit, but develop ourselves. Nine times out of ten you'll find that those fears were all caused by something that scared the very dickens out of us when we were kids. Maybe that incident happened so far back in our childhood that we don't even remember it. But it has left its mark in the fear itself.

Suppose, for instance, a man is afraid of dogs. Well, then you can be pretty sure that a dog scared him badly when he was a kid. Ask him about it—and he'll probably tell you I'm right.

Or better still, let's ask MARGARET DIEGOLI of 84 CARL

Twentieth Century Adventure

Today's article, by Margaret Diegoli of Brockton, concludes the long, interesting series of stories by Floyd Gibbons' Adventure Club members.

Writing to Floyd—and to you, these adventurers have drawn graphic pictures of the past—the dangers they fled, the deaths they escaped.

Now, with Floyd and his sterling adventurers, Boston Evening American readers turn from the thrilling events of yesterday to the Adventure of Today and Tomorrow.

Such a feature is JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA, written in the spirit of the Twentieth Century for Twentieth Century people.

AVE., BROCKTON. Margaret is afraid of dogs—deathly afraid of them. One never comes near her without arousing in her the impulse to run away.

And Margaret knows why, too. She can't overcome that fear of hers because she remembers all too well that terrible Monday back in 1911 when a dog not only scared the life out of her, but almost tore the life out of her as well.

Margaret has grown up and married since that happened. But on that fateful Monday she's going to tell about, she was just a little girl eight years old named Margaret Cappola, and she was on her way to the store to get two pounds of hamburger steak that her mother wanted for the family supper.

Margaret went to the butchers and got the hamburger. And on her way home she did something her mother had often told her not to. Margaret had just one bad habit that mother couldn't break her of.

Whenever she was sent to the store she unwrapped all the bundles and looked inside them. Mother had scolded her about it. She had given her whippings. She didn't like to get her bundles from the grocery all unwrapped and their contents spilling out.

But scoldings and whippings did no good. Margaret still continued to unwrap bundles.

Yes, I've a sort of a hunch—this is just my own guess now, understand—that that parcel of hamburger steak was the last package she ever unwrapped. How about that, Margaret? Am I right?

Margaret unwrapped that hamburger. She looked at it—sniffed of it—and then sort of half-way wrapped it up again. But it was too late, the damage was done. Another creature had got a whiff of that meat, too.

The first thing Margaret knew, a big, handsome Chow dog was following her. Margaret wasn't afraid of dogs. Not then she wasn't. She stooped down to pat him and run her hand through his fluffy hair. She was fascinated and a little bit awed by his wide-open mouth, for she had never before seen a dog with a black tongue such as Chows have.

But the dog wasn't interested in Margaret, nor in all of Margaret's petting. He was sniffing at that bundle of meat in her hand—licking at the paper where some of the meat was showing through a corner of the badly rewrapped package. Suddenly he uttered a low growl and made a lunge at the meat.

Margaret tried to save that hamburger. Quickly she lifted it up over her head, and began to straighten up herself. Then, to her consternation, the dog made a lunge at her.

She saved her meat, but the dog ripped her clothes and scratched her arms with his sharp claws. Then, excited and fluttered, and too young to know better, Margaret made a fatal mistake. She began to fight back at the dog. With her free arm she pushed him away.

THE DOG SNARLED—AND LEAPED AT HER. HE BIT HER IN THE CHEST AND KNOCKED HER DOWN. THEN, LIKE A FLASH HE WAS ON TOP OF HER AND THE PAIR OF THEM WERE ROLLING OVER AND OVER ON THE SIDEWALK.

Suddenly, Margaret felt a sharp pain. The dog was biting. Blood welled from her nose where it had sunk its teeth.

In a fit of sheer terror Margaret grabbed the vicious brute and threw it from her with all her might.

That gave her time to scramble to her feet again, but before she could even turn to run away, the beast was springing at her again.

This time it was springing at her throat. Margaret's hands went up—both of them—to protect her face. And it was that move that saved her. Through all that scuffle she had instinctively kept a tight grip on that package of meat. Now, as the dog's jaws snapped together they closed on the hamburger.

Immediately the dog lost all interest in Margaret. The hamburger was what he had wanted in the first place. He put the package on the ground, tore it open and started gulping its contents. And it's a good thing he had that meat to take his attention. FOR BESIDE HIM, LYING ON THE GROUND IN A DEAD FAINT, WAS MARGARET.

Some neighbors came running to Margaret's aid at that moment. They drove the dog off and got a doctor for Margaret. She carries a scar on her nose to this day as a memento of the occasion, but I'll say that the biggest scar was one imprinted on her mind—that clinging, unreasonable fear that she can't shake off. The fear of dogs.

Social Security

What U. S. Plans Beside Pensions

Blind, Aged Get Help

One major portion of the Social Security Act deals with aid to certain types of needy persons, without regard to their earnings during their active life. In this article of the Social Security series, the Boston Evening American tells you about these plans of the government for the safety of its unfortunate citizens.

Under the Social Security Act, several ways of providing for America's future, and even present, have been arranged in addition to the old age pension program.

Among these ways should be counted the federal assistance provisions of the act. Under these, the federal government contributes to the support of the needy aged, the blind, and children who would otherwise become charges in a public institution.

The assistance funds under the Social Security Act do not go directly from the federal treasury to the individual in need. Instead, they are administered by the public welfare commission operating in most states.

HANDLED BY STATE

Direct assistance, forbidden to the federal government by the terms of the Constitution, cannot be put forward by the government at Washington.

Instead, it is necessary for the states to administer it under the terms laid down by the federal government under the Social Security Act.

Under the assistance provisions of the act, the biggest amounts of money have been paid out so far in accordance with the old age assistance clause. By the terms of this clause, any person who is old and in need has a chance of qualifying to receive an income from the federal government sufficient to keep body and soul together.

However, eligibility under the law and the amount of the assistance income are both rated in accordance with the material possessions of the individual.

No estimate can be made at the present time of the actual effect of the act's provisions for aid to children, since several clauses apply indirectly to child cases, as well as the direct aid to dependent children. Since the share contributed by the state to this aspect of the program is less in proportion, there is not the same incentive for the states to enact supporting laws.

Thus far, the government has made no attempt to establish average expenditure estimates for this portion of the act.

As for general figures, a government study of what has been going on since the Social Security Act has been in force shows this:

PLANS DISCONTINUED

During the first six months of operation of three Public Assistance Titles of the Social Security Act, 84 separate approved plans have been installed by the various states. Two of these plans have, for one reason or another, been discontinued.

During the six months, the government has spent a total of more than fifty millions of dollars from Federal, state, and local funds in connection with these affairs.

In Massachusetts during the most recent month for which detailed figures are available, 35,843 persons applied for old age assistance and got it. The state spent on them a total of $806,445.00 of federal funds, and gave to each needy old person a monthly income, taking an average, of a trifle more than $25 a month.

During the same month, more than 1000 needy blind applied for the aid provided under the Social Security Act, and were given help to the tune of something just under $20,000. Each needy blind applicant received an income of just under $16 a month.

Massachusetts spent more than a quarter of a million dollars in one single month of last year on children of dependent circumstances whose families would, without government help, have been broken up by economic circumstances. Here a state administrative setup found 4817 children worthy of aid, and spent on them in one month the total of $256,988.

More about the Social Security Act will appear in the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

Planned to Blast School

Danville, Va., Dec. 17 (UP)—A 12-year-old school boy who admitted he stole 12 sticks of dynamite so he and his companions could "blow up the Berkeley school" during the Christmas holidays, helped police recover all but two of the dangerous sticks.

Your Queries Answered

Following are some of the questions asked by Boston Evening American readers about the Social Security Act. If you have any questions, address them to the Social Security Editor of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square.

Q—What does a person now 58 years old and earning $25 a week get in the way of pension when 65 providing they keep on getting this salary?

A—Earning $25 a week for 37 years, the pension amounts to $81.75 a month. This figure is based on the total earnings for the period, which should amount to $55,100. On the first $3000 of this the pension amounts to $15 a month. On the next $52,100, the payment will amount to $26.75 a month, which is one-twelfth of 1 per cent of the $52,100.

Q—I operate the food counter in a tavern, and each week the owner of the place gives me the money to pay off the help employed in that part of the establishment. However, he hires and fires these people, and generally runs the show. I pay them as a convenience to him. He claims that these people are my employes, while I claim they are his. Which is right, and what should be done about it?

SHOULD GET FORM

A—From what you say, the persons in question would appear to be employes of the tavern owner. They should obtain copies of form SS-5, the social security application blank for employes, and fill them out, returning them promptly to the postoffice. In the blank reserved for the employer's name they should fill in the name of the tavern owner. When the check on employers comes up after account numbers are given out it will be up to the employer in dispute cases to prove whether or not he is actually the employer of the individual. Final ruling will be made by the collector of internal revenue.

Q—I am 62 years old and working steady. I have filled out a blank. Do I get a pension and pay the tax?

GET LUMP SUM

A—You pay the tax and when you become 65 you receive a lump sum payment of 3½ per cent of the money you have earned between January 1 next and your 65th birthday. In order to receive a pension you would have to work during five separate years between January 1 and the time you are 65, which obviously you cannot do.

Q—Have been employed by the government about 18 years as cook. Do I come under the act beginning in January? Am not a citizen, but have taken out first papers. Does this make any difference?

A—As a government employe, you do not come under the Social Security Act. Your citizenship status makes no difference whatever.

WHITE HOUSE TAX PARLEY CALLED

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—A White House conference on taxation was called today by President Roosevelt.

Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) of the Senate finance committee and Doughton (D., N. C.) of the House ways and means committee, were invited in this morning to go over the tax situation to determine, among other things, whether any modifications of existing law are necessary.

INVITED TO PARLEY

The President also arranged for many conferences today with legislative and departmental chiefs in complete preparations for the opening of Congress.

Among those invited in the White House after the tax parley were Postmaster General Farley, Speaker Bankhead, Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corporation, Secretary Henry Morgenthau and Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

NO GENERAL SHAKEUP

Before the tax conference, Secretary Roper and Assistant Secretary Oscar L. Chapman of the Interior Department were White House callers.

Authoritative reports circulated today that the President would start his second term without a general shakeup of his cabinet.

Except for a possible change in the Secretary of War post, administration officials said they felt there would be no cabinet changes at least for the time being.

Tunnel Engineer E. S. Davis, 87, Dies

Edmund S. Davis, 87, who assisted engineers of the Boston Transit Commission from 1911 to 1916 in erection of the Tremont Street subway tunnel extension and the Dorchester tunnel, died today at his home, 78 Sedgewood avenue, Jamaica Plain.

Mr. Davis retired from the municipal service in 1920 after working for the city for 26 years. He was a native of Northfield, Vermont.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. on Saturday at First Baptist Church, Jamaica Plain. Interment will be at Mystic, Connecticut.

Plan Weekly Dole To 4844 Families

Mayor Mansfield today announced that arrangements have been completed to pay weekly allotments to 4844 welfare families who otherwise would not receive their money until after Christmas.

Payments will be made on Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Approximately $91,600 will be distributed.

New Parley to End Ship Strike

San Francisco, Dec. 17 (AP)—Shipowners and striking seagoing unions called new meetings today to negotiate wages and hours to end the 49-day walkout.

In today's classified columns you will find a choice selection of rooms that will meet all your requirements as to price, description, and location.

GOVERNMENT COST UP

And Going Higher, Leaders Hint

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Democratic house appropriations committeemen spoke today of a possibility Congress might have to increase instead of trim appropriations for ordinary government expenses.

They have not given up hope of taking a big stride toward a balanced budget by paring emergency expenditures.

They said, however, any such cutting might be offset partly by large appropriations for department heads whose functions have been enlarged.

"As long as we keep adding agencies and functions," said Chairman Buchanan (D.), Texas, "we've got to appropriate for them, and we can't cut down."

He said the treasury-post office appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1, might reach $2,500,000,000 — some $100,000,000 more than the original sum for the current fiscal year.

Baby Suffocates In His Crib

Clyde Williams, five-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Williams, of Palmer street, Roxbury, suffocated in his crib today.

The infant was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital, where police of the Dudley street station, who were summoned by the parents, rushed him in the hope his life could be saved.

FIND NOBEL WINNER

Missing German in Hospital

Berlin, Dec. 17 (AP)—Carl von Ossietzky, German pacifist and recent Nobel peace prize winner, rested comfortably today in a private sanitarium "not far from Berlin, a friend reported.

Concern for von Ossietzky had been expressed last night when he could not be found at the West End Hospital.

"His health has improved sufficiently for us to take him from the public hospital, where people kept bothering him, to a little, private sanitarium," the friend explained.

"His chances for a complete recovery (from tuberculosis of heart disease, according to reports) are improving. We hope that as the world begins to forget him it will be possible for him to regain more and more freedom of movement."

Third Youth Held In Cohasset Break

Held as the third of a trio of youths, alleged to have broken into a Cohasset home and stolen $1,150 worth of property, Thomas A. Thrasher, 23, of Winter street, Hanover, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering today in Quincy Court.

He was held in $5,000 bail for the grand jury.

Rev. C. W. Lyons Rallies at Weston

Despite a bad night, Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., former president of Boston College, rallied today at the infirmary of Weston College. Although still in a very critical condition, physicians reported him as resting more comfortably.

Father Lyons suffered a severe heart attack several days ago.

REBELS' ENVOY ASKS PEACE IN CHINA

Nanking, China, Dec. 17 (AP)—Nanking officials seized fresh hope today for an end to China's civil war, and release of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek after conferences with rebellious Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's American adviser, James Elder.

At the same time, a spokesman declared a messenger was bringing an autographed letter from the imprisoned military overlord which would "dispel doubts as to the general's safety."

He also cited a telegram, purportedly from W. H. Donald, Chiang's Australian-born adviser, saying he "had returned to Sian and was remaining in the same room with the generalissimo."

CLOSETED FOR HOURS

Elder, who arrived in the capital early today, was closeted with government officials for the greater part of the day attempting to work out a satisfactory solution for the crisis.

His movements were strictly controlled by Nanking authorities. Guards were posted around the entrances of the private residence and no outsiders permitted to talk with him.

The control yuan (council) approved a motion condemning Marshal Chang to public execution as a result of the military rebellion in which the generalissimo was seized last Friday.

CRIME ENORMOUS

"He (Chang) has shaken the nation to its foundations," the Yuan declared in a statement. "So enormous is his crime it cannot be expiated should he die ten thousand deaths."

The nation's highest authorities announced the rebellious marshal had released General Chiang Ting Wen, trusted lieutenant and fellow captive of the dictator, to convey a personal message to Minister of War Ho Ying-Chin, commanding the punitive expedition against Sian.

It was believed the rebellious Marshal Chang, who seized China's dictator and 20 other dignitaries in a sudden coup d'etat last week at Sian, had outlined his terms for settlement of the mutiny in his message to the minister of war.

LEGIONS RETREATING

Chang's legions were reported retreating on Sian in the face of advancing divisions of China's central army under General Ho.

The "young marshals" troops were said to be cut off from all aid to the east and outflanked by a loyal force to the west by the well-trained government troops moving in force to rescue their imprisoned chieftain.

It was reported here fear-inspiring demonstrations of government warplanes over Sian had caused the marshal's willingness to negotiate.

Four hundred planes, one report said, darkened the skies over the provincial capital as an indication to the rebels of the Nanking government's ability to blow Sian off the map.

Numerous air fields of Honan province are well stocked with the pride of the Nanking air force. The machines are of the latest models produced by America's foremost makers of military aircraft.

Flying Tire Rims Hurt 2, Hit Auto

Two men were recovering from injuries today and the owner of a wrecked automobile was wondering about collecting damages for a smashed window, all on account of an odd accident on Bromfield street, near Washington.

A big van, allegedly operated by George M. Riley, Jr., of Voter terrace, Waltham, blew a tire as it rounded the corner.

Two metal tire rims went flying, one of them crashing into a machine standing at the curb, the property of Mrs. George Wilder, 27 Washington street, Quincy, and Salvatore Simone, 22, of Chambers court, West End.

France Asks Loan Of Hoarded Gold

Paris, Dec. 17—In an effort to get hoarded gold back into the bank of France, the finance ministry announced it would abandon attempts to confiscate "fantastic" profits if holders of gold metal would loan it to the government for three years.

COIN IN NEWS AGAIN

Causes Larceny Conviction

An old Swedish coin which Mrs. George E. Murray of 87 Memorial Drive, Lynn, used in her long drawn out court battle to establish herself as the daughter of Christine Nilsson, the famous songbird, figured prominently again today in another court battle in Lynn district court.

It's alleged presence in the pocket of Thomas F. Eastwood, 50, a taxi driver, of 69 North Common street, Lynn, resulted in a six months' sentence for larceny. Judge Ralph W. Reeve then suspended the sentence.

Eastwood pleaded guilty to larceny of the old coin, $100 in cash and two rings valued at $160, from Mrs. Murray's husband.

DIVORCES WPA CHIEF

Salem Wife Wins Custody of Child

Salem, Dec. 17—Brainerd Wallace, former chairman of the Ipswich board of selectmen and now head of a Works Progress Administration unit, "turned the house into a shambles" on several occasions, Mrs. Gertrude Wallace testified in her suit for divorce in Salem court today.

Chief of Police V. H. Grant corroborated Mrs. Wallace, testifying he was called several times to pacify Wallace during a "rampage."

Wallace took up his house-wrecking activities when he came home intoxicated, Mrs. Wallace said.

Judge Edward B. O'Brien granted the decree on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and gave her custody of their daughter, Eleanor.

Greenville, S. C., Dec. 17 (AP)—Rural School Supervisor George D. Brown discovered 22 pupils of Glassy Mountain High School, up in the mountains, had never been in a barbershop, seen a movie or heard a radio.

7000 MADRID REFUGEES IN FLIGHT

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA

Madrid, Dec. 17 (AP)—Terrified by a night air raid in which scores of bombs screamed into the heart of the "Four Roads" slum district, 7000 refugees, mostly women and children, today fled this stricken city for Valencia.

FOR THIRD DAY

Coincident with opening of a new violent rebel offensive on Brunete, Del Monte, key to the Escorial highway, Premier Francisco Largo Caballero accepted the Anglo-French plan to curb foreign intervention in Spain.

With the new conquests in the front ranks, troops of Gen. Francisco Franco launched for the third successive day at Brunete, and Madrid military authorities officially admitted that Loyalists had lost ground at some points, while gaining in others.

ENVOY FORCED OUT

Among the thousands forced from Madrid by the great air raid, in which 50 workers' homes were destroyed and about 100 killed, were the Mexican ambassador, Perez Treplino, his wife and three children, and 40 other Mexican citizens.

Facilitating, as far as the Leftist government is concerned, the London and Paris move to call a halt to the war and let the people decide its outcome by ballot, the Leftist reply to the arms-control plan was sent to the British and busy.

Paris Airs Newsman's Slaying

By LINDESAY PARROTT

Paris, Dec. 17—To run out with details the gory facts of the fate of the prominent journalist, a loyalist Spanish government airplane and not a rebel bomber as Madrid asserted—downed a French embassy transport and killed a French journalist in a recent international sensation.

The amazing story of this futile attempt at an aerial "sink and leave no trace" reached the foreign office today from French embassy sources in Madrid, on the eve of the arrival in Paris of the body of the slain newspaperman, to be interred on nonsectarian ground.

ATTACK FACTS

Probably never to be disclosed officially—because of Leftist France's sympathy with the radical Spanish government—the facts of a deliberated attack on an airplane of a friendly power are these:

On December 8 an air transport chartered by the French Embassy left Madrid for France, carrying the answer to a French government inquiry regarding the fate of at least 100 Spaniards prominent in art, letters and politics.

The answer in each case was that the persons had been shot by the Red military commanders in Madrid.

As the French plane winged northward over Guadalajara Province, a foreign-built craft overtook it and suddenly opened fire with machine guns.

4 PLANE PASSENGERS

Crashing to the ground with four passengers—one a Red Cross nurse—the bullet riddled plane was wrecked and Louis De La Pree, a reporter for the Paris Soir, died of bullet wounds.

Jean Chateau, a correspondent for the semi-official Havas News Agency, is in a perilous condition in a Madrid hospital.

De La Pree's body will reach Paris tomorrow.

The fourth passenger in the plane was a doctor, who is associated with the International Red Cross in Geneva.

Fire Up! 20 Degree Mercury Drop Due

Clearing weather tonight and a drop of 20 degrees in temperature was predicted today by the weather bureau.

At 10 a. m. the mercury reached the unseasonal high of 41, then started downward. The colder weather will be borne on cold northwest winds.

The cold wave which came up from the Georgia coast, left half an inch of rain in Boston and freezing temperatures the night and today. It passed on to sea off Nantucket.

Boys at Harvard's Dunster House Entertain

By BETTY ALDEN

"THE SAME THING HAPPENS every day, but different people do it" . . . some writer once said about daily happenings in the news . . .

We've always thought it was a pretty clever statement, but like all rules, it is a bit too general and can be amended to "the same thing may happen every day, but resourceful individuals find a different way to do it" . . .

MARY HASTINGS

Politicians and professors of oratory notwithstanding, after dinner speeches have long been a bore to diners in a gay mood . . . So for their annual Christmas party last evening, the boys at Harvard's Dunster House varied the time honored program . . . As soon as dessert and coffee dishes were cleared away, it was not necessary for the guests to snooze quietly in their chairs beneath a cloud of tobacco smoke and rhetoric . . .

Instead, they were entertained by a musical comedy, written and presented by the boys themselves . . . It was called "The Christmas Sparrow" and told of the experiences of a book-ridden Ph.D., Theophilus Sparrow, who followed the ghost of Henry Dunster (for whom Dunster House was named) to see how other people enjoyed life and got a deeper insight into the meaning of Christmas . . . much after the manner of Scrooge in the famous Dickens story . . .

In addition to its Christmas motif, the play parodied the strict old rules about having feminine guests in Harvard houses, and though it was described as "a musical comedy on the age that is past" it has some very hilarious modern characters.

Welcomed the Guests

PROFESSOR CLARENCE HARING, headmaster of the house, and Mrs. Haring, welcomed the guests, and their son Phil, who was on the advisory board for the play, had Abigail Adams as his guest . . .

Among the other couples present were Anne Blake and John S. Kelly . . . Connie Matless with Crocker Wight, who played the part of a Salvation Army lass in the show . . . Mary Hastings with Sam Donnell . . . Betty Wentworth, the guest of Colby Walworth . . . and Hope Sweetser, one of the season's debutantes, attended with John Thorne of Mt. Kisco, N. Y. . . . Hope enjoyed the antics of her namesake, Gibby Sweetser, as he frolicked about in the play in the character of a laundryman . . . Nat Benchley dropped in to dance with some of his favorite partners and others we glimpsed were Lois Tanner Greene, Peggy Eaton, Bettina Gray, Lucille Montgomery and Grace Westlake . . .

Halldis Prince's Debut Party

ALL THE GAY NINETIES niceties of entertaining, which were completely dispensed with after the war, have been gradually returning during the past few years . . . Tails are fast replacing the less formal tuxedo . . . wines and chafing dishes have returned to the dinner table . . . and last evening Mrs. Charles B. Prince revived another old custom at the dinner party for the ushers preceding her daughter Haldis' coming out dance at the Somerset Hotel . . .

After dinner the girls retired to Mrs. Prince's suite, while the boys lingered at the table enjoying liqueurs and cigars . . . Later when the girls rejoined their escorts, tables were set up and several brisk rubbers of bridge were played before the strains of sweet music lured them toward the ballroom for dancing . . .

DEBUTANTE Presented At Dance

HALLDIS PRINCE, debutante daughter of Mrs. Charles B. Prince of Beacon street and Dublin, N. H., as she made her debut last evening at a dance in the Princess ballroom of the Somerset Hotel. Miss Prince, who spent last winter studying in Norway, is a sister of Mrs. John Bross, the former Priscilla Prince, and Mrs. Howard Elliott, the former Justine Prince, both popular society belles of their own debutante seasons.

Musicale Attracts Many

WITH ALL their thoughts upon Christmas and Christmas plans, the subscribers found time to gather for the third of the season's Morning Musicales at the Hotel Statler yesterday.

Many of the out-of-town subscribers were on hand bright and early yesterday morning, to sip coffee in the foyer and later go into the ballroom for a program of songs by Kirsten Flagstead.

Mrs. William Newsome Eichorn came up from Providence with Mrs. Alexander Ellis. Mrs. Robert H. Cole and Mrs. Ernest T. Clary, who was smartly turned out in a black tunic suit trimmed with triangular pieces of Persian lamb, were from Worcester.

Mrs. H. Bigelow Emerson with Mrs. William King and Mrs. George P. Hall enjoyed the high vantage point of a box. Mrs. George S. West and Mrs. I. Tucker Burr also occupied a box.

Debutante Dorothy O'Day, who was just home from college and is coming out Saturday, attended the musicale with her mother, Mrs. John O'Day.

Others in the fashionably dressed audience were, Mrs. Richard Currier and Miss Grace Morrison Poole, Mrs. Frank S. Clark with Mrs. Paul Wheeler, Mrs. Philip M. Clark of Lexington, Mrs. Micajah P. Clough of Marblehead with Mrs. Herbert W. Winslow, Mrs. John Hoar, Mrs. Louis A. Shaw, Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, and Mrs. George Proctor, 2d.

Still others were Mrs. Paul R. Clark, Mrs. Thomas Claflin in a cinnamon rust dress and hat, Mrs. Francis Barnum, Mrs. Alexander Wheeler who also wore rust, Mrs. Francis G. Shaw, Jr., in a gray tailored suit with a rose blouse, Mrs. Winthrop Jameson, in beige wool, Mrs. Richard Thompson in a scotch plaid jacket over a dark skirt, and Mrs. Robert C. Terry who wore a black tunic suit and a little black hat trimmed with two jade green bows in the front.

Proparvulis Dance Tomorrow Night

PROPARVULIS CLUB is having a jolly time tomorrow evening at its annual Christmas party at the Boston City Club. A delightful musical evening has been planned by Catherine Barry. Dorothy Sweeney will have charge of refreshments and Mary Dunn chairmans the hospitality committee.

Mary Lynch chairmans the talent committee and reservations are in charge of Julia Clarke.

The club show fund . . . which realized a goodly sum for its presentation of "Pink Lady" . . . is ever-increasing, boosted by returns from many recent parties.

Mary Welch and Kathryn Hannon were co-hostesses at a lecture and tea held recently at Miss Hannon's Newton home. "A Day in Prison" was the subject of the lecture which was given by William J. Barry.

Pouring tea were Mary Shea, Hazel Mahoney and Marguerite Barry. Holiday decorations, carols and readings lent a festive air to the party.

Kirsten Flagstad Stars At Morning Musicale

By RUTH MARSTERS

Dressed in a simple blue gown, a corsage of orchids at her throat, Kirsten Flagstad appeared upon the stage of the Hotel Statler ballroom yesterday morning, smiled, and sang.

The occasion was the third in the series of Boston Morning Musicales, the organization which, it will be remembered, last season brought Mme. Flagstad to the Boston concert stage for the first time—a laudable distinction.

The sheerly glorious voice that is Mme. Flagstad's, her rare musicianship, the quiet dignity of her presence—qualities which, combined, have made her operatic doings historic in tendency since her memorable debut with the Metropolitan as Sieglind two seasons ago—these same qualities combine to distinguish her among the great personalities on the concert stage today.

For while her Nordic beauty considerably enhances her depiction of Wagnerian heroines, she is, unlike many of her confreres, not dependent on the trappings.

Her voice together with her musical background being sufficient in themselves to the music at hand, she confines herself to simply singing. Her hands, unoccupied with gesture, handkerchief, or book of verses, remain quiet, the one at her side, the other resting on the piano. (Would that a vogue might thus be begun!) She smiles as though she were happy in her occupation. The golden tones that issue from her throat are produced with apparent effortlessness. The audience relaxes, its enjoyment of the performance unmixed with apprehension.

The program itself was well chosen.

Miss McCrea Weds Henry Lewis, 3d

MRS. GEORGE DRAPER of Dover and Mrs. Frederick M. Dearborn, Jr., of Hamilton, were in New York city yesterday to take part in the wedding of Miss Agnes McCrea, to Henry Lewis, 3d.

The ceremony was performed in St. James Episcopal Church late yesterday afternoon. Dr. Samuel S. Drury, headmaster of St. Paul's school in Concord, and the Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan jointly officiated.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. James Alexander McCrea of New York and the late Colonel McCrea, wore a gown of white satin made on simple lines, a long tulle veil draped over a wreath of orange blossoms at the back of her head, and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. James A. McCrea, Jr., gave his sister in marriage.

Mrs. Draper, who was the matron of honor, wore a bronze lame gown, made with a square neckline, short sleeves and bouffant skirt of brown tulle. A tulle headdress with streamers was attached to her hair just off her forehead, with a cluster of velvet pansies. She carried a muff of pansies in yellow, rust and copper tones.

Mrs. Dearborn was one of the eight bridesmaids.

The Real Mrs. Simpson---By Adela Rogers St. Johns

WALLY'S VOICE OF RARE QUALITY

FASCINATING, LIKE GARBO'S

BY ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS

CHAPTER VIII

It has been told a number of times by a number of people that the first time the Prince of Wales met Wallis Simpson he turned to someone and said:

"There is the woman I am going to marry."

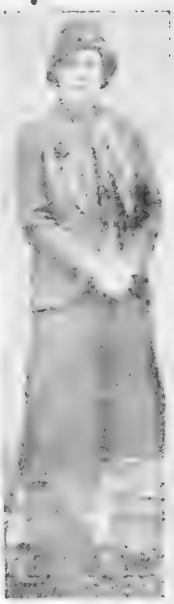
Or that Mrs. Simpson said, after her first conversation with the Prince, that she intended to marry him some day.

Her Beauty

Other Loves

Heart-Winner in Glory

Mrs. Wallis Simpson, as she appeared when she was married to Ernest Simpson, a New York broker. The Prince of Wales, after his abdication, became a voluntary royal exile. "I don't" is the title of the first article by Miss St. Johns explaining this "greatest love" and describing, feature by feature, and trait by trait, "the one woman for a king."



Mrs. Marshall Field of Chicago, who, as the beautiful Audrey Coats, was one of the women friends to whom the Prince of Wales paid court before he met Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

Mogul in Last Keith Week

Opportunity to have your mind X-rayed by the famous Mogul will be given those who have not yet had a chance to see the Ben Bernie of the Keith Memorial stage. That is the last week Mogul is to be on hand.

Beginning Monday, Mogul will present a French pantomime, the work he is presenting this week at the Modern, for the first time in Boston.

Through the courtesy of the theater and without any fee, Mogul is continuing his personal and intimate questions twice daily, from noon to 2 p. m. and 6 to 10 p. m., every day but Wednesday and Saturday, when he appears for three sessions, from noon to 2 p. m., 5 to 6 p. m. and 8 to 10 p. m.

Dr. Mogul was one of the first to predict the world depression, and was one of the first to predict the world depression, and was one of the first to predict the world depression.

"WHAT'S CHRISTMAS DINNER WITHOUT A & P BREAD?"

"I always serve my family the foods they like best at Christmas . . . Roast Turkey . . . Cranberries . . . other welcome old friends. And A & P Bread is one of the most welcome, for it's so fine and delicious.

"I remember years ago, when I was a bride and my husband, whose mother baked wonderful bread, said he wished I could bake bread like his mother. Then one day I tried A & P Bread. And what a difference! The children asked for more and more, and we all ate loaf after loaf.

"Since then, my children have grown strong and healthy for every A & P Bread is rich in vitamins. So A & P Bread is one of the things we'll have for Christmas dinner this year. It's so fine and flavorful it makes the whole meal taste better."

And there's a reason why A & P Bread is tastier, fresher, smoother. It's made of only the finest ingredients money can buy—blended and baked by master A & P Bakers. Try a loaf today! We know you'll agree it's a tastier, fresher, better bread . . . and one that costs you less money, too!

S'now Wonder Quins Are So Healthy!

This is the most exclusive toboggan club in the world—and you can't join because you aren't one of the Dionne quintuplets. The girl on the foreboard is Annette, who doesn't care whether she bumps or not because, look at the way she is sitting! And next is sister Emilie. Then in the accustomed left to right order, are Marie, Yvonne and Cecile. The Quins' Club has had its own toboggan slide constructed to order and, fortunately, because the Quins' Club is in the Province of Ontario, there is no lack of snow. The Dionnes bundle up in striped mufflers and snuggly coats you see, every day, except rainy ones, and use that slide, too. And do they love it! It might be a good idea to be young again, only we never are, and hardly ever quintuplets!

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

UNITED TO BEAT SHUCCO

By JACK CONWAY

Al McCoy and Tony Shucco were to do light training today as they put the final touches to their preparations for their 12-round New England heavyweight championship bout at a Christmas Basket Fund show at Mechanics Building tomorrow night

New Standing

JACK SHARKEY, former world's heavyweight champion, giving Al McCoy [illegible] on how to beat Tony Shucco. Sharkey, who lost to Shucco [illegible] what I said, do what I say." Here Sharkey [illegible] to overcome Shucco's awkward style. Sharkey is playing the part of Shucco who crouches low and lobs to the body. According to instructions McCoy sidesteps and counters with a right hand shot behind Shucco's ear, which Sharkey claims will knock Shucco into oblivion.

In the Prize Ring

THERE IS NO WORSE BOX OFFICE KNOCK you could give a couple of prizefighters like Tony Shucco and Al McCoy than to advertise them on the eve of tomorrow's big business as pious, right living young men who say "Ma'am" to the ladies and eat their spinach. It rings a monotonous ring to the ears of prizefight patrons who are not coy to inspect the private habits of fighters to find as they have earned every [illegible]

Popular prejudice against prize fighting as an ignoble employment for refined persons has scaled down since that primitive period when any pugilist who did not bust up his rooms during his free time or bring riot details galloping to quell attempts at practicing his art extemporaneously, was given the title of "Gentleman" to wear before his name.

Little Difference Between Gent and Pug

SINCE THEN, THROUGH THE YEARS, the social set of Newport and the prize fight set from the waterfront have drawn nearer to a common social medium, so it is impossible to distinguish one from the other without arousing indignation on both sides.

Even Humphries Would Have Gagged

SO SHUCCO AND McCOY WOULD BE SERIOUSLY affronted if you sneaked up suddenly and addressed them as "Gentleman Tony" or "Gentleman Al" and like as not they would bust you one for your pains. The two fighters began their lives as Anthony Scicco and Florian LaBiasseur, the French interpretation of the latter having nothing to do with the beer brewing business. They were born at opposite poles from the boxing industry, Florian on the banks of the Kennebec river and Anthony in the cobblestone canyons of the North End. And they adopted their trade names, just as in their respective lines Josef Paul Cochaschay became Jack Sharkey and Salvatore Sarpulla became Sammy Fuller when they were [illegible] was through the Alley A. "My biggest whiskey value is KESSLER'S!"

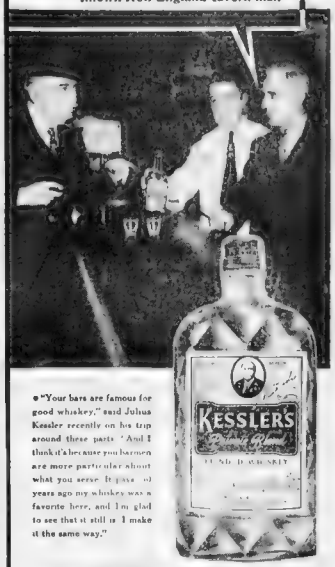
"It's my 'welcome' whiskey, Mr. Kessler. It makes me friends. I'm glad to pay you more for it without charging customers extra!"

Says JAMES MARSES, well-known New England tavern-man



"Your bars are famous for good whiskey," said Julius Kessler recently on his trip around these parts. 'And I think it's because you barmen are more particular about what you serve. It pays. 40 years ago my whiskey was a favorite here, and I'm glad to see that it still is. I make it the same way."

HERE'S WHY BARMEN SERVE KESSLER'S WITH SMILES

When you go up to a bar and ask for Kessler's, ask the barman why he smiles. He'll tell you!

He knows you know his Biggest Whiskey Value. Although he makes less profit per drink on Kessler's, he knows it makes more friends for him by giving you a friendlier evening "pick-up" without a morning "let-down".

Blended by the costlier process used by that master-distiller, 81-year-old Julius Kessler, it is a full-flavored, full 90-proof whiskey, yet mild and gentle too.

Try it! You too will find it more thoughtful of tomorrow!

Bruins Give Life To National League

By ART ROSS
(As Told to Bill Grimes)

Although the governors wore "prop" smiles in the face of all adversities, laughed off the threats of extinction which frequently drifted East from the Pacific Coast, and assumed an attitude of prosperity even when their organization shrunk to a three-club circuit, the National Hockey League never functioned on a sound basis until the Bruins came into being.

In a previous article, I called attention to the importance of the role C. F. Adams played in the development of the National Hockey League. He entered professional hockey at a most critical time, during a regime when the slightest off-color decision might have sounded the death knell to the Calder organization by converting the Western Canada League into the major loop.

Just six months before C. F. Adams introduced professional hockey in Boston, the National Hockey League had allowed the Patrick brothers, Frank and Lester, who owned and operated the Western Canada League, to dictate the policy of conducting the Stanley Cup play offs.

By virtue of that concession, it was apparent that the National Hockey League was not sure of its ground. Otherwise, it would have insisted upon the Patricks playing according to Hoyle.

At the end of the 1923-24 season, Les Canadiens were declared champions of the N. H. L. and were assigned to defend the Stanley Cup, which had been won the previous year by the Ottawa Senators.

PLAY FOR WORLD TITLE

In those days, the winners of the N. H. L. and the W. C. L. played off for the world's championship. Interest in the annual East-West series ran high and as the title had been in the East for six years, LeLs Canadiens drew an important assignment when they were told to take on the Western titleholders.

Prior to that sprin, the Western Canada leagues had played off to determine the Stanley Cup defenders or challengers. But in 1924, the Patricks came up with an innovation. They did not hold any play offs. Instead, they took the Vancouver and Calgary teams East and demanded that Les Canadiens play both clubs to decide the world's championship.

In all probability, if the Eastern representative had been any other club but Les Canadiens, the Patricks would never have been allowed to get away with such a presumptuous demand. The Flying Frenchmen were just about the cockiest aggregation of puck chasers the game ever produced and they were willing and anxious to meet any and all comers. It didn't mean a thing to them to play Vancouver and Calgary, after crashing through to the N. H. L. title.

On the way East, the Vancouver and Calgary clubs stopped off at Winnipeg, where they engaged in a game, which was to decide the first opponents of Les Canadiens. The Calgary club, which had finished in the runner up position, defeated Vancouver in Winnipeg and drew a first round bye.

Vancouver took on the Flying Frenchmen in the old Jubilee rink in a two game series. The Pacific coast champions were beaten, 3 to 2, in the first game and then dropped a 2 to 1 decision in the second encounter.

Game Prepares Frenchmen

Both of those games were thrillers but instead of softening up the Frenchmen they put Leo Dandurand's charges in fine fettle for their final test.

Immediately after they had eliminated Vancouver, Les Canadiens played Calgary and that was the series President Frank Calder assigned me to referee. I'd seen Les Canadiens in action many times but I never saw them display such a remarkable brand of hockey as they played in their first game against Calgary.

They waded right through the Western outfit and when the final whistle blew, were out in front, 6 ot 1 and it was a foregone conclusion that the Stanley Cup would remain in the East.

In the second game in Ottawa, the Flying Frenchmen elected protect their one game advantage and did not open up as they set in Montreal. However, they managed to pop in three goals while holding Calgary scoreless and won their second world's championship.

In 1925, Lester Patrick piloted the Victoria Cougars through to the world's championship but the next spring the Montreal Maroons went West for what proved to be the final East-West series and mainly through the sensational playing of Nels Stewart brought the Stanley Cup back to Montreal.

When C. F. Adams financed the purchase of the Western Canada League during the summer of 1926, the National Hockey League came into complete control of the Stanley Cup and for the first time in its history was on a sound basis, for the former president of the Bruins had removed the last obstacle from the path of Calder's organization.

MOUSE MAY BE 'MIKE' STAR

By N. E. T.

Lots in the loudspeaker offing for tonight. If that little round delaying mouse from the Mid-Western orphanage is to make an airy debut, methinks it might be on the Rudy Vallee program (WNAC) between 8 and 9 o'clock. Either there, or at 9 o'clock (WEEI) during the Major Bowes' doings.

"N. E. T."

Thus the arresting "Mickey" or perhaps it's a "Minnie" by name, makes the first appearance. The presumption there's a mouse-ical is not definite. It seems the recent display of temperament may find him or her, as the case may be, with a cold or otherwise indisposed. Some excuse if the studio might help matters a-prevailing.

In any event, Cormia O'Connor, one-woman show and versatile artist and amateur mouse-trainer, will also present John Gurney, Metropolitan Opera basso, Edgar Bergen, gifted dialect and entertainment and Elsa Maxwell, the well known society organizer and entertainer.

MYRT AND MARGE

Ingenious gayety are in hand concerning the whereabouts of "Myrt and Marge" and that should mean that Jack Benny will be with word that the popular pair are guests with Kate Smith during her "Swanee" broadcast (WEEI) due on the dials again this evening at 8 o'clock.

Out on the coast, where Bing Crosby and Bob Burns stage their weekly "Music Hall," among the personalities promised are Jack Oakie, Mary Astor and Nadine Conner, who will be heard in the interesting entertainment (WNAC) to the 10 o'clock Crosby airing.

WINNING A WAGER

Last night during the "Metropolitan Singers" program (WNAC) the narrator announced "The Pilgrim Chorus" composed by Wag-ner-er. He pronounced it as you would your neighbor's name, rather than in the strictly musical manner which is always Vay-gner.

It was Rabbe the stunning musician who bet every regular in supper a good cigar that there is at least one radio column where the name is spelled correctly the first time, meaning the one you are perusal. Witness to be found.

"Settlement of the sentence of Rabbe will be satisfactory to the column and the narrator. Fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be.

Payoff with the El Odium will mean the giving of it in turn to Professor Quiz' omniscience big eyebrows while he organizes, strictly against the studio rules by the way.

The last one to smoke the fine cigar has also been missing in action for some time. Out in the everglades perhaps. Cheerio.

"Will China Fight?" is the title of an address which Frederick V. Field, secretary of the American Council of Institute of Pacific Relations, will deliver from New York studios (WEEI) tonight from 10:30 to 10:45 p. m.

The Institute which Field heads has conducted a great deal of research and published many books on Far Eastern affairs.

FUTURE FEATURE

Sunday morning next, when "Uncle Bob" takes the Boston Sunday Advertiser "Funnies" place (WNAC) from 10 to 10:30, he will have a very special pre-holiday treat in store. The fanciful "Harmonica Maids" from St. Theresa's Church in West Roxbury and composed of 25 young misses, are to contribute a special arrangement of the traditional hymn "Silent Night" and a catchy "Jingle Bells" impression as well.

On the topic this evening (WAAB) comes Ed. Sullivan's "Meet the Boys" broadcast during which Lew Conrad of his Covenant Choir Boys hopes to sell a blanket formation and just pressed through the press without being restricted by rushes.

Greetings to the nation by President Roosevelt is also decided upon and will be wafted to the four winds by all the networks and independent stations available in the country at 5 o'clock, on December 24.

Singing Mouse Air Debut Tonight

Woodstock, Ill., Dec. 17 (AP)—The singing mouse of Woodstock, with a new name and vocal rating, enjoyed complete seclusion today pending its radio debut.

Officials of the Industrial Home for Children—where the mouse was discovered last week—announced the pet was a soprano, not a tenor, and had been renamed Minnie, instead of Mickey.

This development closely followed a conference between Superintendent Herbert C. Gerlach of the industrial home and Assistant Director Robert Bean of the Chicago zoological park.

Minnie was scheduled to go through her chirps and trills during a broadcast at 9:30 p. m. from a Chicago studio.

Novel Radio Show By Miss Parsons

Hollywood, Dec. 17—Inaugurating the most unique show ever attempted on the air, Hollywood Hotel moves to Twentieth Century Fox's Westwood studios to broadcast "One in a Million" to a combination screen and air preview at 9 o'clock tomorrow (Boston time) over CBS.

On an entire sound stage built to represent a glorified ice palace, Louella O. Parsons will introduce not only the stars of Darryl Zanuck's million dollar musical, Sonja Henie, Adolph Menjou, Don Ameche, Ned Sparks, Jean Hersholt, the Ritz brothers and Robert Kent, but also Miss Parsons will move through the audience of 2000 greeting the celebrated stars who will be on hand to witness this great show.

Another innovation will be the time "behind the scenes of movie making" arranged by William A. Bacher, producer and director of Hollywood Hotel, a thrilling first hand expose of picture technique, surrounding this broadcast set and movie preview will be the well-known Hollywood Hotel favorites including Dick Powell, Frances Langford, Ire Gorin and Raymond Paige and his orchestra.

Prosperity Is the Goal Of America

THE National Association of Manufacturers, affirming its support of the Government in seeking prosperity for the nation, is CONTINUING A FUNDAMENTALLY AMERICAN POLICY.

The full essence of the spirit of American union is in the pledge, obligatory upon all groups into which our people divide, to promote the happiness and security of the whole nation.

The statement of purposes by the Association gives the assurance there has been no departure from a national policy that has given Americans prosperity in the past and WILL GIVE THEM PROSPERITY IN THE FUTURE.

* * *

THE purposes stated by the manufacturers are not for industry alone. They embody the same aspirations to national security that are constantly being expressed by all Americans, in labor, in the professions, in the arts and in all walks of life.

The Association speaks for the entire nation in this declaration:

"Industry seeks an era of good feeling. Prosperity for a nation depends on productivity and peace."

Labor joins whole-heartedly in that declaration of an American ideal. The Government accepts it as a guide to the nation's destiny.

The assurance that American industry will help the Government to achieve permanent prosperity for the nation is more than a pledge of co-operation.

It is the restatement of an American principle that has contributed to progress in this country from its earliest days.

THAT principle has never been abandoned. It could only be abandoned at the cost of turning away from CERTAIN PROSPERITY.

It might be a new principle in some nations for representatives of industry to offer to co-operate with their Government in establishing a sound basis for prosperity, BUT IT IS NOT NEW IN AMERICA.

The benefit to be gained from restating a national policy so COMPLETELY UNCHANGEABLE is found in the emphasis it places upon the capacity of the American people for putting a good goal above the methods by which it is achieved.

Such differences of opinion as we have had have been concerned entirely with methods. We are all headed the same direction, and going the same place.

Prosperity is the common goal of all Americans. We all want to be happy, to live in peace and to enjoy the great privilege of BEING AMERICANS in the fullest measure.

THAT is what industry wants. It is what labor seeks. It is what the Government, representative of all the people, accepts as its basic responsibility.

America is not a nation of hopelessly divided interests. It is not a country in which the prosperity of one group must be paid for in the sacrifices of another group.

It is a country in which all of its people go forward to better things together, or not at all.

Prosperity will not long elude a nation whose people are capable of concentrating their efforts into a national program promoting the welfare of all.

A Major Crime Problem

AN ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

This time-worn slogan finds a new application at the New England Crime Conference now in session in Boston.

Speakers, eminent in their respective fields, discuss prison reform, parole administration and other important problems. But always stress is laid on the necessity of PREVENTING CRIME.

Among such speakers is Harvard Professor Sheldon Glueck, noted criminologist, who calls for greater study of juvenile delinquency, which he terms the basic problem in the campaign to rid the nation of the criminal.

Professor Glueck is right. Crime among youth is America's FOREMOST problem.

Nine boys, the youngest only seventeen, now await execution in New York's Sing Sing. Older inmates are calling the death house "a high school."

What better proof could anyone desire?

Juvenile delinquency is a challenge to every law-abiding citizen in America, and upon the finding of an early solution rests the future security of the nation.

An American Christmas

THE tremendous volume of holiday buying reported from every section of the United States can go far toward assuring the prosperity of the nation during the coming year.

But this will be true only if the bulk of the merchandise purchased by holiday shoppers is MADE IN AMERICA.

This challenge to PATRIOTIC BUYING was issued this week by Captain Frank X. Eble, director of the Made-in-America Club.

"Every preference you show for American-made products is a direct aid to American manufacturers and is reflected in the payrolls that go to American workers."

Christmas shoppers are using wages earned in America for their holiday buying. They should assure themselves that the money they spend WILL CONTINUE TO PAY WAGES TO AMERICANS.

The security of the American wage-earner rests with the American buyer. The opportunity to extend the benefits of Christmas spending over the entire year, and into the homes of American workers, SHOULD NOT BE LOST.

The War On Cancer

By Charles H. Heyd

President of the American Medical Association

In an Address Under the Auspices of the New York City Cancer Committee of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

I am to speak to you on the subject — Fight Cancer With Knowledge.

May I say emphatically that cancer can be cured and is being cured today.

Every physician has many patients who have had a positively diagnosed cancer and who are alive and well.

In fact, there are today in the United States over 250,000 individuals, both male and female, completely cured of cancer.

There is a large amount of fear, ignorance and secrecy about cancer.

The opinion seems to be widespread that cancer is increasing at a tremendous rate. We have always had cancer. It is found in trees, in the lower animals, and in man. It has existed from the time when man first began his earthly career.

There are certain facts that are lost sight of when one thinks of this malady.

First, there are more people living today than at any time in the world's history. For example, in continental Europe in 1800 there were 180 million people. Today in the same area there are 440 million.

Secondly, more people live longer. In 1900 the average age at death was 54.26 years; in 1935 it was 59.31—an individual increase in life of over five years.

Thirdly, when people die today we know very accurately just what caused their death. These so-called vital statistics record for study many cases of cancer that heretofore were not recognized.

Fourthly, it is said that the Indians and other primitive people never had cancer. This is not a measure true. The Indian as a rule never lived long enough to develop cancer—for cancer is largely an affliction of mature life.

Cancer is not a secret disease. There is not a single recorded instance of anyone catching cancer from anyone else. It is not inherited. It is curable and therefore should be no secretive-new about it.

The individual should not hide the condition from fear but at the earliest possible moment seek out expert professional advice.

That is where your friendly doctor can advise you, institute the proper laboratory examinations so that in a very short time you can know accurately what is the trouble.

With adequate surgery, the use of X-ray and radium, individuals afflicted with cancer can be made well and health and usefulness assured.

A final word—learn about your disease early and be hopeful.

FIGHT CANCER WITH KNOWLEDGE IT CAN BE DONE.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Young? Still under 30, with the world and your life before you? Listen lowly, doesn't it?

But when you are, it's anything but.

We're the Machine Age youth is a long leap from the dreamy dawdling of Dad's and Mother's. In 30 years, the human picture has changed more than in the preceding 300. There's a new set-up all along the line . . . a set-up which leaves the average parent gasping.

Elsie Robinson

Then who's to tell the youngster what's right? Where's he to find a key to the cruel chaos surrounding him?

In just one place—his own eager mind, his own fighting heart. Give the modern Youngster a chance to think things through and talk things out—and, mine him out of fine gold get the answers straight.

Give YOUNG AMERICA ON THE STUMP! . . . GIVE THE PEOPLE WHO ARE GOING TO RUN THIS SHOW A CHANCE TO SIZE IT UP—AND THEN SPEAK THEIR MINDS!

ALL MAY WRITE

There's the front-page cry of 1936—from homes and shops, campuses, offices and work lines—a demand backed by hundreds of letters daily to this column. And here's the answer:

We're putting Young America on the stump!

Starting here . . . beginning now . . . this column will be thrown open once a week to Young America.

Every Monday the young men and women of the U. S. A. will shout—"LISTEN WORLD!" And here's betting all the chips that the world gets an earful.

Subjects? Anything that relates to Youth, and these strange, new problems which modern youth is facing.

Goodness—what is it?

Marriage—when can we?

Chaperones—should they?

Education — how much and what kind? Does the present brand work? Is it getting youth somewhere or holding it back?

FEW SIMPLE RULES

Pay checks—who should hold them, the youngster, or Mom?

Home—how about 'em?

Parents—what should we do with them?

Sweethearts . . . real love . . . separate latch keys and apartments? . . .

The list is endless! Never were there as many new and vital questions before young life as today and the future of the race depends upon youth's answer to those questions.

Very well, here's where youth will give that answer, while the whole world listens! And perhaps YOURS will be the first answer printed.

The rules? Easy. The writer must be under 20. Make your letter short—not more than 500 words. Give name and address. Send it to ELSIE ROBINSON in care of this paper. Then stick around and wait for results.

Once a week, ONE particularly fine letter will be printed.

So-o-o—All ready? Beginning now—starting here—

YOUNG AMERICA IS ON THE STUMP!

Between I and You

By Winston Norman

Speakin for the men, which I wouldn't be doing if my wife Mabel was home, it looks to me like we are in fer trouble with the women.

The women have begun to pick up their ears and listen to things which was for MEN ONLY, such as the 6-hr. day and Security in your old age.

For goodness sake, what would hapen to America if them ideas was took up by our wife?

Take my wife Mabel, she is one of them old-stile things you call a Housewife, which is a thing that works about 18 hours per day, getting Minnimum Wages for Maximum Hours, and doin a lot of Child Labor when the kids isn't in school.

Well, Mabel is already hogin to act questions. "Why don't the Govt do some-thing for wimmen with loafing husbands?" she says to me.

She has a lot of new and up-to-the-minute ideas.

"Why don't Congress cut down on my hours of scrubbing? My goodness," says Mabel, "if working is getting together, it's about time us Housewives done so. Raising a family & husband is the lowest-grade Labor in America."

I told Mabel that if she wanted better working conditions, she should of joined a Labor Union instead of a Marital Union. I told her that Liberalism and short hours was O. K. in Industry, but we can't stand fer none of it in the Home.

Somebody has got to do a little work to keep us alive whilst we are striking.

They have no overhead. Do not have to sit at typewriters or have office hours. If they think up a nifty or so they know their market and a dozen of them often make as high as $50 a week. And several score pick up $100.

* * *

The Ghetto' Second avenue, the promenade. Rialto and Lobster Beit of the Lower East Side, is showiest Sundays at uptown. And its cafes may reveal Molly Picon, the darling of Yiddish stage, perhaps Bertha Kalish, the tragedienne, now facing blindness, along with a scrapper or two, specialists of the Jewish press. No cross section of life in the metropolis parts with more personalities of the Ghetto. Everybody is out for a good time and has it.

Incidentally the bloods of Second avenue still carry walking sticks, a conceit although pondered on Broadway and along the upper East Side.

Children of the Ghetto have revived the old stick on and pull down penny pictures—a sort of washable tattoo so popular 20 years or so ago. All the corner candy stores are displaying designs of Garbo, Robert Taylor and such.

Second avenue, too, for some reason, features several blind pianos playing in restaurants. Their affliction, heretofore unknown little outside regular patronage. The combination of a piano-like xylophone, is a popular musical instrument and one of the favorite beverages is celery beer.

One thing is especially noticeable in the ghetto, there is rarely over-indulgence in liquor save by some visitor from uptown. And the Ghetto shows disgust in such exigencies by paying checks and silently exiting.

Uptown the cafe drunk is always with us and presents a problem for proprietors, even if he has acquired his bun on the premises. A ruckus in a restaurant is a sign of poor taste. There are patrons who will never return to a place where they witnessed a brawl.

In the tony spots they try extra tact, but if the drunk won't work they call a cop, tell the offender he is wanted on the phone, that his wife has been hurt and he is quickly escorted.

* * *

Thin gumshoe: Masterlinck thought the most beautiful English word was "Gallant." Ring Barney Gallant is back in the Village again entertaining and
